

Role A: The President.

You chair the meeting, and ensure everyone joins in.

It is important to consider each project, and how well it meets all the criteria in the situation for investment

Organise the meeting in the following way.

1. Ask each participant to give their opinion of each project.
They can fill in their worksheets, as the different projects are discussed
2. Choose the most suitable project for the bank.

Your own point of view.

You favour the dam in Malaysia.

It's the most expensive project, but political stability is good in Malaysia. The average economic growth over the last 20 years has been higher than in most countries. And the currency is stable against the average level of other currencies in the region.

You already financed two other major projects in Malaysia and Singapore.

Your bank is the second largest in the country. And you have a close partnership with the Malay industrial bank. The largest commercial bank in the country.
